19.03.2009 AIG Evaluating Sale of New York Headquarters Building

American International Group Inc., the insurer that received a $173 billion U.S. bailout, is considering selling its New York headquarters building and another tower in lower Manhattan.

The insurance company is seeking a buyer after commercial real estate prices in the U.S. dropped by almost 15 percent in 2008, according to a Feb. 19 report from Moody's Investors Service. The deepening recession is causing tenants to cut jobs and vacate space.

The 66-story headquarters on Pine Street was completed in 1932 and has about 775,000 square feet, according to Emporis.com, a database of New York City properties. The Wall Street building is 16 stories and has about 279,000 square feet, according to MrOfficespace.com.
