Facts

- The open framework at the southeast angle is similar to the corners of Peachtree Summit #1 in Atlanta.
- When looking down from the Loop, the overhanging crown of this building complements the overhanging trellis of Skybridge.
- The lobby features a two-story high Joel Perlman sculpture titled Tallix.
- The crown on top of the building is a parallelogram with sharp corners at the northwest and southeast.
- Like the nearby UBS Tower, the building used a dark blue film to protect its facade during construction. It was unwrapped shortly before completion.
- The caissons and columns on the western edge are designed to help support a planned second phase tower.
