Facts

- The East Perth Railway station has served as Perth's interstate terminal for over 30 years with the Indian Pacific Train departing from the station twice weekly.
- The station is one of the few remaining examples brutalist brick architecture in Perth and as such, was given heritage listing in 2002.
- The station is also the terminus of the Prospector and Avon Link services that link the large inland city of Kalgoorlie as well as the central wheatbelt area to Perth.
