Facts

- This isolated tower in Chicago's Bucktown neighborhood is also known as the Coyote Building because its slender shape and corner spire resemble a coyote howling at the moon.
- Namesake of a major annual arts fair, the "Around the Coyote" Festival.
- Connected by a secret underground passageway to the 3-story building across the street at 2011 West North Avenue. During the 1920s the latter building was used as a brothel, and clients would use the tunnel to escape raids. The passage is currently boarded up.
