Facts

- The William R. Snodgrass Tennessee Tower Building was originally the National Life Center, home of National Life and Accident Insurance Company.
- The building became the headquarters of American General Life and Accident Insurance Company, which sold it to the State of Tennessee on January 3, 1994.
- The building now houses over 1,000 state employees who were previously located in several scattered locations.
- Tallest building in Tennessee from 1970 until 1986, when it was surpassed by the Fifth Third Center.
- The exterior is clad with travertine and glass.
- Buildings formerly occupying this site include the Memorial Apartment Hotel and the Clarkston Hotel.
